IT IS HARD ON THE POOR. The Cold Snap Increases Their Sufferings-Need for Fuel and Food. The snow is likely to increase the sufferings of the poor and to enlarge the list of applicants for relief. Second The organization of a stable of page 202. are many large families of negroes. The police say that most of the applicants from that section of the city are colored people. In the sixth precinct there are many applicants. The eighth precinct also contains many poor per-sons. In the northwestern section of the city there are fewer applicants than in any other section. Should the present sharper weather continue any length of time the police anticipate a heavy run on the poor fund, which is not very large. Should there prove to be much suffering among the poor the police will receive and distribute to the needy such articles of food and fuel as may be contributed by the charitable. Chief Clerk Sylvester has shut down on the persons who seem to imagine that the government owes them a living and who seek a portion of the poor fund regularly every winter.

JUNK DEALERS' LICENSES. Proposed Amendment of the Existing Laws to be Submitted to Congress.

Assistant Attorney for the District S. T. the Commissioners, today prepared a bill to omy and to the lasting settlement of the vexed questions which have agitated the three amend the license laws of the District in regard powers in their complex relations to these to dealers in junk and second-hand clothing. The present law, Mr. Thomas says, defines a junk dealer to be a person whose business is to buy and sell old iron, rags, &c. There is a case ings of the conference show that in the fifth in the General Term now (D. C. V. Cohen), in which the attorney for the defendant makes the was under consideration, Count Bismarck, while little toward the edge of that terrible abyss of point that inasmuch as his client purchased his junk in New York he may sell it here without king, said that he was bound to make one exjunk in New York he may sell it here without a license; holding that in order to convict it must be shown that the defendant buys and sells here. The following is the bill, which will be transmitted to Corporate the conviction in the person of Mataafa, on account of the outrages committed by his people on German sailors lying dead and wounded on the field of action. The Stoddard Lecture Ticket Sale. WASHINGTON, D.C., January 23.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: Isn't it just a little unfair on the part of your correspondent "Clio" to withhold his identity

Tuesday morning "for two hours the doors (of John F. Ellis & Co.) were kept closed while an official of the Congregational church was in the store selecting a large portion of the best seats for both courses."

Trumpet and talked into it. He was speaking not upon a piece of paper but upon a light wax cylinder. When he had finished speaking he inclosed this little cylinder in a little pasteboard case or box and mailed it to Mr. E. D. Easton, the president of the Columbia phofor both courses."

As a matter of fact, the Congregational church official was in the store of Ellis & Co. on the morning referred to only twenty minutes by the clock and when his turn came, for he was not first in line, did not spend more than ten minutes in selecting tickets, and when he left the store there were something over two thousand unsold, including both courses.

The Congregational church official referred to was acting for his son, who had undertaken to purchase some tickets for other persons, but being unable to attend to the matter that morn-ing the undersigned attended to it for him. He did not purchase a single ticket for speculation nor even for his own use, leaving it until the following day to purchase a couple for his family.

Every ticket secured by him was purchased upon a written order, signed by the persons who are to use them. It was published in a newspaper of the city previous to the sale, in the form of an "interview" with Mr. Bayly, manager for Ellis & Co., that such orders would be duly honored if legitimate and from reputable parties, an arrangement certainly calculated to facilitate the great sale and therefore con-take forty persons more than ten times as long to select a hundred tickets as it would one person who had studied the diagram carefully. The statement of another single fact will convince any fair-minded person of Mr. Bayly's purpose to avoid the slightest occasion for complaint. There is abundant evidence that not a single seat was marked off from the diagram when the first detachment of purchasers were admitted to the store. I am told, too, that it can be easily ascertained at the "central office" that Ellis & Co.'s telephone was discents a day and some little things from the connected by the latter during the progress of the sale, and that it is equally true that the letter carrier was requested, and did, detain all mail matter addressed to Mr. Bayly or Ellis & Co. until the afternoon of that day, thus making it impossible to communicate with them to the disadvantage of any one in line.

But I am taking too much of your valuable space. I only wanted to state a few facts in defense of Mr. Bayly, whose integrity as manager for Ellis & Co. has been unjustly and so publicly called in question. As for himself, the writer, being on deck as usual in the early morning, managed to get there all the sameand honorably, too—and therefore has no sour grapes of disappointment to digest. Very respectfully, ELPHONZO YOUNGS, 428 9th st.

What John F. Ellis & Co. Say. To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR:
WASHINGTON, January 28.

Permit us, in reply to a communication in your paper signed Clio, to state that the rule quoted was not intended to restrict the sale of Pleasantville, Pa. Mrs. Adams sprang from tickets, but to prevent speculation. We could her bed and raised the window, and inquired not have carried out the rule literally without jeopardizing the financial success of the entertainment, seriously injuring our business and inconveniencing the public. By a close mathematical calculation any one can ascertain how long such a sale as that conducted by us on Tuesday would last if we had required all ticket huvers to be personally present.

The largest average of tickets purchased by each one in line for his own use would be five, and the time consumed in selecting, &c., three minutes; number of tickets on sale, 2,184; time about twenty-two hours, and, as we only sell ten hours a day, the queue of buyers several squares long would have to stand in line all this time and all night besides if they wished to keep their turn.

Our doors were closed all the time of sale,

A CATHOLIC VIEW OF MILL Prof. Pohle Says the Philosopher Was Believer in Spite of Himself.

At the Catholic university yesterday afternoon Dr. Pohle, professor of philosophy, lectured on the theism of John Stuart Mill. He showing it to base human knowledge exclu-

Stuart Mill tions for assistance this winter as usual, prob- the three powers having treaty relations with does evade the principle of casualty, in so far as it establishes the connection between cause and effect to be absolutely necessary, but Secretary Blaine's letter to the President is in doing so he not only sets the ax at the root of religion, but he also puts all scientific knowledge to ruin. Our religion and science may be truly said to stand or fall together. The principle of John Stuart Mill has proved a complete failure, because in the long run it must become the death of science. But, in the lecturer's opinion, and in the opinion of all people who think, a system that does not work ought not to be acquiesced in.

MILL'S PHILOSOPHY AND HIS COMMON SENSE. If many followers of Mill do not go as far as their system leads that must be attributed to their common sense preventing them from accepting so many absurdities. It is in like manner owing to common sense that Stuart Mill himself was not led into atheism. The logical consequences of his own system were, fortun-ately, hidden from his gaze. He did not ven-ture to be an advocate of agnosticism. He believed in God as the designer of the universe and the author of the contrivances of nature. main, entirely in accord with the instructions Although his mental powers swooned when he thought of God as the omnipotent and omniscient, he shrank from agnosticism and atheism and was a believer in spite of himself.

> AGNOSTICISM. Agnosticism must be considered as a chronic intellectual disease prevalent among a large part of the people of our age. There is no blinking the fact of its prevalence, however dis-couraging it may be. But modern agnosticism is not so much the result of a bad will as the outcome of a series of earlier heresies. It may be said to grow directly out of, and be traceable to, the positivism of which Stuart Mill was perhaps the ablest advocate.

LOST THROUGH POSITIVISM. Positivism seemed at the outset to strengthen the intellectual insight by its scientific methods and to add to the accuracy and certainty of our knowledge; but, after all, the truth turns out to be that it has deprived us of the most noble and dignified objects of the human thought, This generation, by turning its eyes exclusively to the outer world of matter, has thereby susskepticism which is the death of all scientific knowledge as well as of all religion.

Take away from before our eyes the blue sky and the brilliant sun, and at once we will stagger and grope in utter darkness. Take away from our minds and hearts the glorious name of God, and all around us will turn into a wilderness dark and terrible to traverse. The cosmos will be transformed into a chaos; science into universal dotage. If we have lost God we have lost all, He, indeed, is the sun which enlightens our minds; the object of our faith, of our hope, and of our charity: Deus

NO LOSS WITHOUT SOME GAIN. A Decrease of $700,000 in Johnstown's Taxable Property.

D. A. McGough, county commissioner's clerk at Johnstown, has made a statement of the decrease of taxable property in the flooded district. It shows that the taxable property at the time of the flood was valued at over Nearly fifty years ago the late Commodore $3,000,000, and at the present time $2,300,000, a did not have a single house left out of 136, as also did not the first ward of Millville out of 79. The body of one flood victim and the bones of two others were found at Coopersdale yesterday.

GRAND BALL OF DEAF MUTES The Dancers Could Neither Hear Nor Speak, but They Enjoyed Themselves.

Lyric hall, in New York, was occupied last night by some three hundred and fifty stylishly dressed ladies and gentlemen, who managed to have a thoroughly good time, extending into the small hours of the morning, without a word being spoken during the entire time.

It was a grand ball given by the Deaf Mutes' union leagne. With but few exceptions all present were similarly afflicted. The league is a social organization composed of twenty-five young men, graduates of the institution for the improved instruction of deaf mutes. It may be mentioned that this school teaches only the articulation system and does not encourage the making of signs, but the mutes will prefer the signs because they are quicker to learn and

Many deaf mutes from other states were present. Prof. Bell, the inventor of the tele phone, who was at one time a teacher of deaf mutes and whose wife is thus afflicted, was present. Members of three deaf mute societies Manhattan literary association, the Gallaudet club of Brooklyn and the society of silent workers—were also present. There was a ban-quet with "speeches."

Miss Cammerer is Better Now.

Miss Lenchen Cammerer of No. 1407 North 13th street, Philadelphia, has entirely recovered on by the exciting incidents attending the trial of her suit against Clemens Muller. "I was not always at the trial," she said yesterday in an interview, "because my attendance was not necessary, but when I did go I was stared out of countenance. One person would nudge another and say something like There she is' or 'That's Miss Cammerer.' When I was on the witness stand it was simply awful.

All eyes were riveted on me and I was ready to faint. It was utterly indescribably horrid.
My lawyer, Daniel Dougherty, did nobly. It was the first time I ever met Col. Ingersoll.
The verdict shows how the jury regarded his declaration that somebody had lied in this triel." "Of course you are satisfied with the result,"

I suggested.

Miss Lenchen smiled happily. Slowly and with determination she said: "I regard the verdict in the light of a vindication, don't you? I was greatly shocked by the publicity given the case and one Philadelphia paper printed an awful story about me. Now, I should have thought the Philadelphia papers would have treated a Philadelphia girl better. I am passionately fond of music and may go abroad and complete my education in that line. I can write a first-class musical criticism and have done so for the newspapers." suggested. done so for the newspapers."

Glass Workers May Strike.

The American flint glass workers association will order a strike on Friday if the manufacturers of Pittsburg and the west do not stop filling the orders of the eastern manufacturers, as the men say they are doing. The east-ern workers are on a strike and the American association has already paid out several thous-and dollars to support them in this strike.
